

I travel extensively throughout the state of Oklahoma with my job. K-Love is the only dependable station that I can listen to without being bothered by commercials and foul language. In OKC in particular, there are several stations that air offensive information that depicts the lack of morals and continued denigration of wholesome values. I have spent more than 20 years working with high risk populations of adults, children and adolescents to provide healthy interventions, prevention and treatment for substance abuse. Self esteem building is a key component to helping people make wise choices. K-Love promotes family values, and airs comments and songs that uplift, encourage and teach ways to make wise choices. Unfortunately, there is no shortage of work for people in my profession. However, there is a shortage of radio stations airing confidence building, self-esteem building, uplifting and encouraging messages. K-Love's songs are unique in this capacity. Please do not handicap our society any more than it has been already by removing the one station that assists me day and night in my efforts to help improve the conditions of our society.
